Subject: Microsoft Settlement

Dear Department of Justice:

We all know about recent dot com bubble. Whom to blame for it? My feelings are that if somebody decides to find whom to blame, they may say that it was Microsoft whom to blame for it and all consequent losses in many people's investments during these boom years. US Government should settle its case with Microsoft and stop blaming Microsoft for everything that this company was accused. Microsoft cannot be scapegoat for all other people's problems. Microsoft allows US people to enjoy the best IT innovations and standards in the world and leads true software technology development and initiatives. US IT sector is a very competitive industry and already allows any company to succeed in providing best services and goods and making good money. The dot com bubble busted because people promised a lot and could not deliver. Please let Microsoft to continue delivering its products that consumers want and please settle your case with this company.

Sincerely,
Alexander Belyaev
